In the background, there are white kitchen cabinets, a stainless steel refrigerator, and a large window. The overall design is clean and contemporary.

fitness center

SCOPE OF WORK
full renovation/design

LOCATION
sukhumvit soi 30/1

For this fitness and training center between Thong Lor and PromPhong, the new owner asked us to create a more active space which would look more modern.

Apart from the brand new equipments, we simply remodeled this fitness area with an industrial style and changed the layout plan for crossfit area.

In facility areas, we installed a new grey wood decking around swimming pool which perfectly matches the beautiful tropical garden.

BOXING AREA

Elite Fight Club is a network of gyms and muay thai training facilities operating as a subsidiary under the Elite Boxing umbrella. The headquarters of the subsidiary is based in Thailand at the Elite Fight Club Gym in Bangkok, while the company continues its global expansion by setting up franchises in strategically important markets that currently include Germany, Australia and Bulgaria.

We used "Hot & Cold" concept to symbolise moods and activities in one place, the red color has been used for designing the training area whereas cold colors have been chosen for the relaxing area.

We used rubber tile on floor finishing to support Muay Thai activity and play with color of space and lighting to make this space being more active.

MUAY THAI

Muay Thai is referred to as “The Art of Eight Limbs”; and using eight points of contact the body mimics weapons of war. The hands become the sword and dagger; the shins and forearms were hardened in training to act as armor against blows, and the elbow to fell opponents like a heavy mace or hammer; the legs and knees became the axe and staff. The body operated as one unit. The knees and elbows constantly searching and testing for an opening while grappling and trying to spin an enemy to the ground for the kill.

We studied and did some research requirement before the project started. It helps us to find the best design matching our customer's needs.

In the fitness area, we advised our customers about the machines fitting our design concept best. We also used bright warm lights to make this space the most suitable for training.

RELAXING AREA

Relaxing area is another part of this project which is for supporting user after having hard training. We used contrast color tone from training area to cool down user.

The pool, the bar and the spa have been designed with natural material to become the most relaxing areas and the red color has been kept to remember the signature of this training center.
